Backstage Visit by Holiday Children

The 85 children attending the Aborigines Welfare Board's summer camp at Elanora in January were given a surprise treat—a visit to "Hullabaloo Belay!" a comedy spy adventure presented by the Australian Theatre for Young People.

The show was a big success in Sydney, and went on tour throughout New South Wales and Queensland this month.

The children's visit was initiated by well-known Sydney actress Wendy Blacklock.

They enjoyed the performance, and then had the excitement of going backstage and meeting the actors and actresses in their stage costumes.
